the app that turns "we should totally do that" into plane tickets and a countdown.

THE PROBLEM

Group trips die in the group chat. Every single time.

"we should totally go to tulum"

200 messages. Zero decisions. The thread goes quiet. The trip never happens. Sound familiar?

the spreadsheet phase

Someone makes a Google Sheet. It has 14 tabs. Nobody looks at it. The organizer resents everyone.

the "herding cats" problem

Getting 6 friends to agree on dates, flights, and a house is a second job nobody applied for.

the money conversation

"Can everyone Venmo me?" is the fastest way to make a friend group awkward. Nobody wants to be the accountant.

THE INSIGHT

Experiences are the new equity.

Housing is unaffordable. Careers are uncertain. But this generation isn't cheap — they're intentional. They'll split a $4,000 Airbnb six ways before they'll buy a couch. The only investment that pays back reliably is the trip you take with your best friends.

THE GAP

🔥 say less, i'm in

nobody owns group trip planning.

Partiful proved the model: social + event + FOMO = viral adoption. But Partiful stops at parties — and still has no clear path to revenue. Rally takes the same viral playbook into trips, where real money is already being spent. Accommodations, flights, experiences, splitting costs. Legacy travel (Expedia, Marriott, Booking) has built nothing for Gen Z group coordination. That gap is Rally.

Partiful ✨

Proved social + FOMO + one-link invite = massive adoption. $140M+ valuation. No clear revenue model.

the playbook — but parties don't monetize

Google Sheets

Functional. Soulless. Dies in 48 hours when nobody updates it.

no personality, no conversion

TripIt / Wanderlog

Built for solo itinerary nerds. No social proof, no FOMO, no group dynamics.

wrong protagonist

Expedia / Marriott

$200B+ in market cap. Zero products for Gen Z group travel. They'll buy this.

legacy = eventual acquirer

THE PRODUCT

one link.
one scroll.
one tap.

Rally is a single URL dropped in the group chat. It does its full job in one scroll — on mobile, on cellular, with zero friction. No app download. No signup. No clicks to find the cost.

01 organizer builds a trip page
pick a theme, add the vibe, set the date. 90 seconds.

02 drop the link in the group chat
the page IS the pitch. FOMO does the selling.

03 friends tap "i'm in" — trip is live
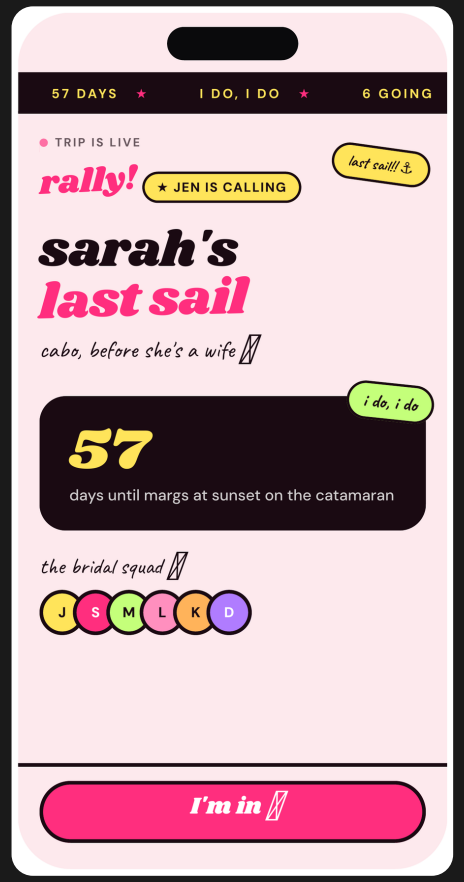
crew builds, countdown ticks, the plan fills in.

🔥 the 11pm test



THE MOAT

17 themes. one chassis.

Every trip page runs on the same kernel — six CSS variables control the entire visual identity. Change the six, get a new vibe. The themes aren't decoration — they're the product. Bachelorette weekends feel different from ski trips because they are different.

THE DEMOGRAPHIC

25–35 year olds who plan group trips 2–4x/year. Post-college, pre-kids. Disposable income but no patience for logistics. They already use Partiful for parties — Rally is the natural next step.

WHY NOW + THE VISION

Partiful proved viral adoption and the need for in-person gathering for a generation chronically online — but has no revenue model. Legacy travel has built nothing for how Gen Z actually plans together in real life. The opportunity isn't a feature — it's a generational shift.

Rally is the Gen Z / Gen Alpha travel destination — starting with group trips.

THE BUSINESS

start with planning. expand into the trip itself.

Rally enters through the biggest pain point — organizing the group. That's the wedge. Free, viral, zero friction. Once the group is formed and the trip is real, Rally sits at the center of every spending decision the group makes together.

PHASE 1 · THE WEDGE

free

Trip pages, themes, RSVP, crew management, countdown. Every invite = new user.

PHASE 2 · OWN THE DECISIONS

sticky

Itinerary building, polls for where to stay, activity voting. Own every decision the group makes together.

PHASE 3 · MARGIN EXPANSION

revenue

Marketplace for accommodations, flights, experiences. Partner with BNPL + savings providers. We're the storefront, not the bank.

PHASE 4 · COMMUNITY

moat

Share trips + itineraries publicly. Themes become the gateway to a social, shareable ecosystem.

Own the coordination, own the decisions, own the point of purchase. We partner for payments and financial products — we never build the pipes.

wedge → platform 🚀

WHY ME

I've been the organizer my entire adult life.

I've spent my career in tech at some of the most innovative companies in the world — working in product and as an operator. I come from a family of entrepreneurs. Building things is in my DNA.

But I'm also the friend who's planned hundreds of group trips. Every bachelorette, ski trip, Airbnb weekend, birthday abroad — I've been the one making the spreadsheet, chasing the Venmos, and holding the group together. I've watched how travel has evolved for young people, and I know exactly where it breaks.
